DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, JANUARY 4, 1834.

Removal of Deposits.—The Board of Trade, of New York, adopted a Memorial to Congress, praying that the Deposits may be restored to the United States Bank, only one person dissenting, and that one a government contractor.

THE CONTINGENT DRAFTS.—It seems, to our mind, to be utterly impossible that the issuing of these drafts can be justified. The Constitution declares that "no money shall be drawn from the Treasury, except in payment of appropriations made by law;" and, certainly, there was no appropriation made to sustain the credit of the Manhattan Bank, at New York, or the Union Bank, at Baltimore.—There is, however, a provision in the law chartering the U. States Bank, under which the Secretary may, for certain reasons, remove the deposits. But we think this provision will not avail him, in this case, for several reasons.—For altho' this provision in the law may possibly justify his direction that the deposits, subsequent to the 1st of October, shall be made in other banks, yet, it cannot apply to this issuing of contingent drafts.—The framers of the law incorporating the bank certainly never intended that the public funds should be used to sustain insolvent or failing banks. One of the leading objects which Congress had in view, in chartering the bank, was the securing a sound currency, by the salutary controlling influence of the United States Bank. But if any Secretary of the Treasury may use the public funds to sustain tottering Banks, a main object of the chartering of a National Bank would be defeated.—Besides, if these drafts are to be considered as removals of deposits, under the provision of the Charter, then the Secretary has violated the provision of that law, because he has not furnished to Congress his reasons, as he was bound to do.—He has, it is true, furnished his reasons for directing deposits to be made in other Banks, after the first of October, but no reasons for withdrawing deposits, or portions of deposits, previously made in the United States Bank. Besides, that provision of the law refers the matter to his own discretion, and not to the discretion of some eight or ten Cashiers of local Banks in Boston, New York, Baltimore, or New Orleans.

On the other hand, if these drafts are not made under that provision of the Charter, they are manifestly illegal—without a shadow of justification, and in direct violation of that provision of the Constitution, which declares "that no money shall be drawn from the Treasury, except in pursuance of appropriations made by law."

TWENTY THIRD CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

Monday, December 30.—In the Senate, the Chair laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, in reply to the resolution of the 19th, calling for copies of certain correspondence between Mr. Crawford and others, on the subject of the Bank, &c.

Also, a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, on the subject of the amount of public money deposited in the various Banks, and other matters, embraced in the other call made by the Senate on the motion of Mr. Clay.

The reading of these communications occupied about three quarters of an hour.

Mr. Clay then rose and said, that, as to the report which had been just read, and which he now held in his hand, it was a most extraordinary and an unprecedented document. The Senate had called on the Secretary of the Treasury for documents, and he had given them an argument.—With respect to that argument, the Secretary was welcome to the full benefit of it. He (Mr. C.) would undertake to prove, at a proper opportunity, that the Secretary had misquoted the letters of Mr. Crawford. Mr. Crawford had acted under the resolution of 1816, and all extracts which referred to that authority had been suppressed in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Senate had called for things which they had not got, and had got things which they had not called for. They had asked of the Secretary bread, and he had given them a stone. The Senate had called for the name of the agent who had been employed to make arrangements with the Banks. The Secretary ought to have known that this was one of the objects of the call, because he recited in the beginning of his report, the whole of the resolution. But the name of the agent was not communicated. The Senate had asked for the compensation to the agent, but the Secretary had not given it. The Secretary was asked by virtue of what law this agent was appointed. It was replied by the Secretary, that he knew of no law, but the practice of his predecessors. It was not now the proper occasion to go into this question. He had himself looked into the correspondence of Mr. Crawford, at the time, and had seen it all, but the circular to the Banks, which he had obtained an opportunity of seeing this morning, from another quarter. And he was ready to assert that it asserted no such power as that which was now claimed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

He concluded with moving that the communications be laid on the table, and printed: but withdrew the motion, at the request of Mr. Forsyth.

Mr. Forsyth then said that he thought the Senator from Kentucky was most unkind to the Secretary of the Treasury, and had done him much injustice. He had accused the Secretary of suppression of information, because he had not returned all which had been asked for. What was asked for? The Secretary had been asked to send certain documents to show that the extracts made from the letters of Mr. Crawford, sustained the course of the Secretary. He had done so. The gentleman from Kentucky had charged that some of these extracts were misquoted, and that others had been concealed. The Secretary had, it must be well known, referred to no documents which were exclusively in his possession. They were out of his possession, and there could be no concealment. The Senator from Kentucky, when he introduced this call, had distinctly declared that he denied the Secretary's statement of his own case. There it was. The gentleman had charged the Secretary with making misquotations from Mr. Crawford's letters. Here the letters were—chapter and verse. He thought the Senator would be grossly mistaken, if he thought he should be able to show any misstatement of the Secretary. Mr. F. then referred to the charges made against Mr. Crawford before the House of Representatives, to show that he was not charged with impropriety for having made transfers of the public money, but for having failed to communicate the fact to Congress. As to the other part of the charge against the Secretary, that he had not given the name of the agent, it would be found that the name was in the commission of the agent; and among the papers would also be found the compensation given to the agent. The information required was here given in the most authentic form, and the gentleman could make what use of it he pleased.

Mr. Clay replied, that no one could be more free from the charge of unkind feeling towards the Secretary of the Treasury, than he was. He scarcely knew him as an individual, and could have no unkindness towards him. The gentleman from Georgia had said that he (Mr. Clay,) had required from the Secretary his own statement of his case. Had not the Secretary made out his statement before the Senate made this call? There was, indeed, a part of it which was not made out, and that was the correspondence of Mr. Crawford. The Senate, at his instance, had called for this correspondence; but no argument was called for. They had asked for documents, lettters, evidence, and the Secretary had given—what? an argument. As to the name and compensation of the agent, he had not been able to find in the report. The gentleman from Georgia might have had access to the documents, and seen what he (Mr. Clay,) had not been able to find in the report, in which it seemed to be totally omitted. He should feel happy, however, if the information was given in any part of the communication. As to the course and authority of Mr. Crawford sustaining the Secretary, he could only say, that he had read the whole of the correspondence of Mr. Crawford, and would pledge himself to show, at some other time, that he had misquoted, in every instance, where there was a semblance of similarity between the argument of Mr. Crawford and that of the Secretary. The powers assumed by the present Secretary were never asserted by Mr. Crawford, and if they had been, it would be nothing more than the opinion of one Secretary sustaining another.

The report and documents were then ordered to be laid on the table, and be printed.

MEMORIAL FROM STATE BANKS.

In the House of Representatives, Mr. Binney presented the following memorial:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled:

The Memorial of the undersigned, the Presidents of the State Banks located in the city and county of Philadelphia, acting under the authority of the Boards of Directors of the several Banks, respectfully represent—

That they address themselves to your honorable bodies, as the Guardians of the general interests of the country, and as possessing alone the power of remedying the existing distress, and of averting the greater calamities which are obviously impending.

That one of the first blessings a nation can possess, is a sound and well regulated currency—the solid and sure reward of industry, and the uniform measure of property: and it was not the least among the many advantages anticipated from the Constitution, that the whole Union would, by the Legislative power, be relieved and preserved from the dangers and disgrace of a depraved and irresponsible circulating medium. Such a sound currency this nation has enjoyed, by means of the Bank of the United States, established by the wisdom of Congress: and the peculiar occupation of the undersigned, justifies them in stating their conviction, that it is owing, in a great degree, to the judicious operations of that Institution, that for ten years past our moneyed system has been so perfect—and that whether its solidity, its adaptation to the wants of all classes of the community, its facilities for internal commerce, and its protection against the vibrations of foreign trade, be regarded, it has no superior in any country.

It is, therefore, with deep regret, that the undersigned are now constrained to inform Congress that, in their belief, this system, with the signal prosperity it has produced, has undergone a sudden and painful change. The moneyed operations of our commercial cities are almost at a stand: the commerce between the States is again laboring under a tax, which must continue increasing, of a loss on all its exchanges; the circulatiug medium already begins to arrange itself on the scale of depreciation; while in the train of these evils, and not far behind them, may be apprehended still more disastrous results to the agriculture, commerce, and manufactures of the United States.

In looking for the cause of this state of things, the undersigned feel no difficulty in naming that which is at once obvious and adequate. On the 1st of October last, the whole moneyed system of this country commenced a total change. To the eye of a common observer, it seemed to be the mere transfer of the public revenue from one Bank to many Banks. But it was, in fact, the disorganization of the whole moneyed system, and the whole revenue system of the country. Until the 1st of October, the revenue paid by the whole country was diffused by the Bank and its branches throughout the whole community, to be used for the support of the industry of the whole, and gently recalled when needful for the service of the whole; while the Bank, as the common friend of all sound State banks, uniting with and sustaining them, was enabled to supply an adequate circulating medium from its own resources, and to preserve in a uniform and sound condition the issues of the State Institutions. Now, the public revenue is no longer diffused throughout the whole Union; it cannot even be advantageously used where it is collected; and the Bank of the United States, whose expansive power and credit have been so frequently employed to relieve the community, must look necessarily and primarily to its own security.

Happily for the country, the remedy for thi distressing state of things is as evident as thes cause of it. The undersigned do not hesitate to express their belief, that as the removal of the deposits of the United States, from the Bank of the United States, is the real cause of this distress, so the restoration of them to that institution is the real, and will be the effectual, remedy for them.—With a view to remove from that measure all reasonable apprehension, the undersigned venture to request, that the deposits of the public revenue, now in the State Banks, should remain with those institutions, until withdrawn in the course of the public service, or as the wisdom of Congress may please to direct; but, that, hereafter the accruing revenue of the United States should be collected and deposited in the Bank of the United States.

And your memorialists will ever pray.

President,—By order of the Directors of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank.

The Memorial was read, and referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

GREAT PUBLIC MEETING.

A very numerous meeting of the citizens of the City and County of Philadelphia, was held yesterday afternoon, in the State House Yard.

The meeting was organized on motion of Nathan Bunker, Esq. by calling

Major General ROBERT PATTERSON to the Chair.

BENJ. W. RICHARDS, Esq. } Vice Presidents.
Col. JOSEPH S. RILEY, }

Thos. Reeves, Jr., } Secretaries.
Col. W. P. Smith, }

General Patterson, after having read the call, explained the objects of the meeting in a brief speech.

The following preamble and resolutions were then offered by Robert Waln, Esq., and unanimously adopted.

Whereas, after a long series of years of almost unexampled prosperity, there has fallen upon this community, within the brief period of a few months, a most unexpected derangement of its moneyed concerns, and a pressure upon its moneyed resources, which has already produced great disorder and suffering, and which threatens to prostrate the whole productive industry of the country. Be it therefore

Resolved, That the Congress of the United States be respectfully requested to take such immediate measures for the relief of their suffering fellow citizens, as may, in their wisdom, appear best calculated to mitigate the present distress, and avert the greater calamities which seem to be rapidly approaching.

Resolved, That the Legislature of Pennsylvania be earnestly requested to unite their endeavors to obtain, from the Congress of the United States, the adoption of such measures as may relieve the present embarrassments of the citizens of Pennsylvania, and prevent the delay, or the abandonment of the works now in progress, for the promotion of the great interests of this commonwealth.

Resolved, That copies of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, signed by the officers of this meeting, be transmitted to the President of the United States, and to the Governor of this State, and also to the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and the Speakers of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, to be laid before their respective bodies.

Resolved, That these proceedings be published in the city papers, and the editors of newspapers generally, throughout the state, be requested to copy the same.

ROBERT PATTERSON, President.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Journal of Com.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28, 1833.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives has made a merry Christmas in his office. He has carried out the principle authorized by the House in his own appointment and the ejection of Clarke; that is, he has turned out the Jonathans and put in the Johns. The officers removed are Messrs. Fletcher, Randolph, and Patterson,—all of them, I believe, very good Clerks, particularly the first named. Those appointed are Mr. Early, formerly Post Master at Savannah, and a very worthy man; Mr. Welsh, of Harrisburg, and Mr. French, of N. H. all good Jackson men. Many members of the House are much displeased at the transaction, and threaten openly to interpose and correct the procedure. It is said that the House will take the affair into its own hands, and reinstate those who have been removed. If there are votes enough to effect this, the next step will be to turn out Mr. Franklin and reinstate Mr. Clarke. Neither House sat to day.

Mr. Taney's nomination has not, it is believed, been sent to the Senate, as yet.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Patriot.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30, 1833.

Mr. Taney, you will remark, has come before the Senate with a new array of "Reasons." The first edition of "reasons," which he ushered into the world not satisfying him nor the Public, he has come forth with another long document,—seizing upon Clay's call for Mr. Crawford's authorities and the call for the name of the Government Agent, as the best opportunity for a parturition.—Mr. Clay as well as many other Senators were highly indignant with this additional instruction which the Secretary has seen fit to shower upon the Senate,—and it was only by the excessive courtesy of the Senate, that this new light of the Secretary was permitted to go into print. Mr. Clay well remarked, that he had asked for bread, and the Secretary had given him a stone.

The great meeting in Richmond has created a sensation here. It is a sign, Mr. Van Buren thinks that he is lost in the South,—that his jig is finished over the Potomac. The names and character of Leigh and Johnson, backed by the multitude who rallied around them, and unanimously supported them the powers that be well know, will have their influence as far as the Mississippi.

Mr. Clay's remarks before the Sonate upon the proscription which is entering the halls of legislation,—alluding to the removals of the Clerks, by the Clerk of the House, has given additional importance to the subject. If Mr. Polk had not occupied so much of the attention of the House, it is believed that an inquiry would have been instituted. Mr. Franklin may have to walk back to Pennsylvania, for this abuse of power,—and if so, no one would regret his absence after such an exercise of authority,—falling as this blow does upon men who have families with no other means of support.

Commerce of the United States.—The value of the exports of the year ending on the 30th Sept. last, is estimated at $90,693,403, of which $70,642,030, were of domestic, and 20,021,373, were of foreign articles, showing an increase in the exports of domestic produce of $7,504,560, over the exports of the same character for the year ending 30th Sept. 1832, and a diminution in foreign articles of $4,018,100. The value of the imports for the year ending 30th Sept. last, is estimated at $109,000,000, being greater by the sum of $8,000,000, than the imports for the year ending 30th Sept. 1832. Of the imports for the year ending 30th Sept. last, it is estimated that $34,000,000, were in articles free from duty.

The State Banks.—We are authorized to state that on Friday last, the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of this city resolved to withdraw their proposal to the Secretary of the Treasury for the Government Deposits. The same bank also agreed to sign the memorial of the banks of the city and county for the restoration of the deposits to the Bank of the U. States.

We are also authorized to state that the Philadelphia Bank yesterday resolved to sign the said memorial, and withdraw their application for the Government Deposits. All the state banks of the city and county have therefore determined to petition Congress for the return of the Deposits to the Bank of the United States, with the exception of the Girard Bank and the Western Bank.—Enquirer.

We believe that the anti bank men now confess that there is an absolute necessity for a national bank. One has indeed been promised—but it must be located in New York. That secures all the votes of that state for the regularly designated heir apparent. Pennsylvania has hitherto been entirely yielding—only let her attach herself to Virginia or New York, receive a nomination of a secretaryship, and she was content. It remains now to be seen, how far this spirit will extend.—U. S. Gaz.

The following new view of the relations which have lately sprung up between the Treasury and certain favored State Banks, is copied from the last Letter of "The Spy in Washington," to the Editor of the New York Courier and Enquirer:

"Under date of the 28th September, 1833, appended to Mr. Taney's report of the reasons which induced him to remove the deposits, I find a document marked G., purporting to be a "contract" between the Secretary of the Treasury and the Girard Bank. I ask, by what authority has the Secretary entered into the contract? This subject will, undoubtedly, be thoroughly investigated.—That there has been an alarming assumption of power, every thinking man must admit. And has there not been a direct and wilful violation of an existing law? In an act, approved May 1st, 1820, I find this clause:—"No contract shall hereafter be made, by the Secretary of State, or of the Treasury, or of the Department of War, or of the Navy, except under a law authorizing the same." A plain matter of fact man, as I am, cannot misunderstand this provision. It is for the lawyers to explain it, as meaning nothing; and this, I presume, will be done."

Our Currency.—We give below some observations from the New York Courier and Enquirer, on the all absorbing question of currency, and add our hearty concurrence in the opinion, that the whole pressure on our money market has been caused by the wicked crusade of the Kitchen Cabinet against the Bank of the United States.—This wicked attempt to break the Bank of the United States, has created a panic that affects the whole country. We might quote the price of all the staple articles of the whole country, as being depressed by the present want of confidence among our traders. Red wheat, that readily sold six weeks since, at $1 15c., will not now bring over 95 cts. Flour has fallen 12 1-2 to 16 per cent. within the same time, and beef and pork, and whiskey are without demand. Tobacco, cotton, and sugar equally feel the pressure—and who are our farmers and planters to thank for all this loss? Why the whole is chargeable to the folly of General Jackson, in allowing Isaac Hill or Amos Kendall to govern and turn him at pleasure, to serve their sinister and selfish purposes.—Balt. Chron.

☞ Another Demonstration.—We understand that the Philadelphia, and Farmer's and Mechanic's Banks of this City, have determined to memorialise Congress on the present state of our financial system; and have withdrawn their applications for receiving the Government Doposits.—Phila. Com. Herald.

A distant and venerable correspondent observes, that "it is a great curse to a republican government that the citizens often become more attached to the man who administers the government, than to the constitution and laws. When men in office and legislators are more attached to the man at the head of affairs, than to the constitution and laws, they will defend him whether right or wrong. They will invent excuses for his violations of duty, which they would, without such attachment, reprobate and condemn. If the House of Representatives, in the present crisis, will not vindicate the Laws and Constitution of the United States, the Constitution is not worth a straw, and our boasted Republic is at an end."—National Intelligencer.

The Murder of Miss Cunningham.—We published an article yesterday from the Port Deposite paper, respecting the arrest and imprisonment of a man on suspicion of being the murderer of Miss Cunningham, in Cecil county, in April, 1825. We are now informed, in addition to the article published yesterday, that the man arrested is a shoe maker, who has resided at, or in the neighborhood of Port Deposite, ever since the murder was committed—and that in one instance he appeared as a witness, and testified strongly against two men who, a few years since, were arrested on suspicion of having committed, or being accessary to, the said murder; and had it depended on his testimony alone, they would in all probability have been convicted. The discovery now made was truly providential. He had hypothecated a very valuable ring to a man, to whom he was indebted, which ring the creditor placed upon his finger; and soon after, being in company, it was observed and identified, Miss Cunnigham's name being still legible! On being questioned, he informed from whom he received it, and for what purpose, and referred to two persons who were present at the transaction. Process was accordingly issued, and the suspected culprit was arrested, and is now confined in Elkton jail. On searching his premises, we also learn that a stocking, belonging to the deceased, was also found, which, on comparing, corresponded precisely with its fellow which has ever since been preserved by her family. Niles' Register, of the 23d April, 1825, in mentioning the horrid account of the murder, says—"She was just about to be married, and her ring, the emblem of plighted faith, was carried off. It is possible that this circumstance may lead to the discovery of the murderer.—Balt. Chron.

The weather up to the present time, has been unusually mild. Although the Steam Boats have been laid up for some weeks, other vessels have continued to navigate the Lake to the present time. There have been three arrivals this week—the schooner Independence, from Maumee, Louisa Jenkins, from Buffalo, and the Atlantic from Detroit. Within a day or two, there has been a perceptible change in the atmosphere—the weather having become suddenly cold. Hence we may infer that winter has set in for earnest, and that navigation is closed for the present season.—Cleveland Herald, Dec. 28.

The proceedings of the Senate of Georgia are occasionally enlivened by a little farce, to relieve the tedium of business, and the bustle of fighting. Some passages between two of the representatives of the collective dignity and sovereignty of the State, lately took place, less remarkable for refinement than might have been expected in so grave a place. A Mr. Alford, in reply to a brother Senator, who answers to the name of Stanford, said—"that he did not know what to do with the gentleman; he believed he would swallow him, and if he would grease his head, he would do so." Mr. Stanford, not to be out done in civility, promised for the "especial accommodation to the gentleman," to buy a bottle of macassar oil, "as goose grease might be repugnant to that gentleman's feelings of consanguinity."

With this expression of considerate kindness, the conversation dropped, and we have not yet learned the issue of the gastronomic experiments.—Balt. American.

Boston and Providence Rail Road.—We understand this road has been located through the centre of the Burying ground in East Attleborough. This large yard contains above 1,000 graves. The proceedings of the Engineers have thrown the parish in a state of high excitement.

The remark is made that the Senate should not do this, because, in such case, the President would do that and so forth. It is said to Congress—"You need not resolve that the deposits shall be restored to the Bank of the United States, for the President will, assuredly, use the Veto." Such reasoning is inadmissible; it militates against sound ethics and the provisions of the Constitution.—Fais ce que tu dois, advienne qui pourra, is the true theory. "Do what is right, come what may."

The advice given to Congress obviously resolves all legislation into the will of the President: nothing is to be attempted, however expedient or necessary for the national weal, but what is understood to meet his wishes and "policy of empire." What republicanism this? Congress lie under the obligation to do what they conceive to be right, without reference to the dispositions or plans of the Executive branch. A perverse or misguided President must be left to himself;—if he render himself liable to impeachment, Congress will exercise their constitutional power and duty; if he may not be impeached, the correction and remedy of his misconduct are with the people. In a contest with an arbitrary and irrational Chief Magistrate, the immediate representative of the people can feel sure of victory in the end. His excesses betray him to ruin; and the sooner the case is brought to a crisis the better. If executive power is ever to become fixedly paramount and virtually monarchical in our political system, it will be rendered so by concessions from the legislative branch—concessions whether by direct ratification of claims to undue prerogative, and of acts of usurpation, or by abstinence from measures which would provoke extremes, and thus induce a regular struggle.—Nat. Gaz.

FROM SPAIN.

We learn, from an intelligent gentleman, that he has received information, of the 21st November, stating that General Bourmont was performing quarantine, at Valencia de Alcantara. During his stay at this place, it had been discovered by the Governor, that he was carrying on a secret correspondence with the Infant Don Carlos, against the Queen. In consequence of this discovery, the Governor of Alcantara, by order of the government, had sent him prisoner to the fortress of Alburquerque, where he was under trial, for treason against the State.

The national volunteers were taking up arms, and forming regiments, by order of the government, whilst the Royalists were being disarmed throughout the country.

The Cholera was raging at Malaga, where 200 a day were dying. At Seville, the Cholera had almost subsided. In Cadiz, the Cholera commenced on the 26th of October, but the deaths had not exceeded 30 in any one day, owing to the cleanliness of the city, and the regular habits of the inhabitants.—N. Y. Gaz., Dec. 31.

Great interest is excited in England by the report of the committee of Parliament recommending the opening of extensive public walks, terraces and thoroughfares in populous towns, for the exercise and recreation of the poorer classes. Many of the old promenades and fields which immemorial practice had consecrated to this usage have been illegally built upon, from the enhanced value of property, and the all grasping spirit of lucre, which have thus obliterated these breathing places, or lungs, as they may be termed, of a densely populated city, that are preserved with such scrupulous care in Paris and all Centinental towns. Rejoiced are we to see that these liberal and sound principles are gradually obtaining the ascendency in Europe, and in the language of the report, that "an earnest and growing interest on all that relates to the humble classes is taking possession of the public mind."

"What are you jumping after there?" said a schoolmaster to an urchin who stood up to his eyes in shirt collar. "I wanted to spit, sir," was the reply, "and I was jumpin up to try to spit over my dickey!"—Salem Gaz.

CARLISLE IRON WORKS

FOR SALE.

THIS valuable property, late the estate of Michael Ege, deceased, consists of about 8,000 acres of land, including three Farms, on which are a furnace, forge, grist mill, saw mill, and rolling and slitting mill; with all necessary barns, stables, coal houses, out houses, and dwellings for families of the workmen, in the most complete and permanent state. The water power being derived, principally, from a large limestone spring, to which the stream of the Yellow Breeches has been added, is more than adequte to the purposes of the works; and has besides the uncommon advantage of being unaffected by ice or back water. An inexhaustible bank of mountain ore of the best quality for bar iron, is found on the estate, two miles from the furnace, and limestone ore may be had in a situation equally convenient. The wood land and meadow are amply sufficient for the supply of the works, which are advantageously situate as respects a market, being but seventy miles from Baltimore, five from Carlisle, and sixteen from the Susquehanna. This desirable property will remain for private sale till the first of April next, when it will be offered at vendue, if not sooner disposed of. For terms, apply to the subscribers, either at Carlisle or Philadelphia.

J. APPLETON'S LATE IMPROVED

WASHING MACHINE.

THIS valuable improvement has been preferred by all who have used it to any other machine of the kind yet offered to the public.—It is expeditious, without injuring the clothes washed, as will be seen in the certificates below. All those who wish to save labor in washing, will please to call and see the operation, at the Masinon House, corner of Wood and Fifth streets. Machines, and the right of counties for sale—Machines 12 dollars—and at any persons service for trial. Dec. 31, 1833.

We have had in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine, and do not hesitate to say that it is preferable to any that we have seen or used. A woman can wash as much in one day, with the machine, as she could in three by the hand, and only half the soap is necessary. We think it clears the clothes better than hand washing, without injury to them. We have also used Barnes' Patent Steam Washing Machine, called Peg Machine, but give Appleton's the preference. It washes cleaner and faster; therefore we recommend Appleton's Machine to the public in general.

Lucy Higginbotham, | Elizabeth McKim.
Robert Poore,

We have in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine. It is so simple in its construction that it may be used by any unskilful hand, and we do recommend it as a great saving of time and labor.

Edmund Henderson, | M. Gretter,
A. Robinson, | James Fisher,
George Greenhow, | Isaac White.

Hamilton County Agricultural Society.

It is hereby certified, that the Judges, appointed by the Hamilton County Agricultural Society, for the exhibition, held at Mill Creek, on the second of October, 1833, having awarded that Appleton's Washing Machine, submitted to the Society, on trial, appeared to their satisfaction to be of utility as a labor saving machine in domestic economy—they unhesitatingly recommend it to their fellow citizens—in testimony whereof, this Certificate is given. FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Frankiin Institute, of tha state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8, 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land	containing	330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
other lots, containing about			6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

TYPE FOUNDRY.

HAVING purchased of Mr. Richard Ronaldson, his long established and very extensive Type Foundry, the subscribers have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of continuing said business, and for the convenience of their friends and patrons, have removed their establishment to a more central part of the city. As it is their intention to keep on hand a good assortment of the best type, and to make such additions and improvements as the taste of the trade and the wants of the country require, they flatter themselves that this establishment will merit a large share of patronage. They have now several founts on hand, which can be furnished at a few hours' notice, and are prepared to make founts of all weights and sizes, from Pearl to 22 lines Pica, including a variety of Ornamental Letter. Their assortment of Cuts, Dashes, Brass Rule, and other Ornaments, will be found to be very extensive, of which specimens will be forwarded to Printers as soon as they can be prepared.

Printing Presses of every description, Printing Ink of the most approved qualities, Composing Sticks, Brass and Common-Galleys, Chases, Imposing Stones, Cases, Paper and Press Boards, Standing Presses, Furniture, together with a complete assortment of all articles used in a Printing Office, will be kept constantly on hand.

Small founts, suitable for Book Binders, in great variety, may be had when called for.

Orders from all parts in the Union will be promptly and most carefully attended to, and particularly in supplying sorts for all founts furnished by their predecessors, Binny & Ronaldson, and Richard Ronaldson.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention. state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

TRAVELLERS.

THE LINE OF STAGES between Chambersburgh and Baltimore, on the Somerset and Mountpleasant route, has been doubled, and now runs DAILY, (Mondays excepted,) leaving Chambersburgh at day-light in the morning, and arriving in Baltimore, early the same evening.

Passengers reach Philadelphia, in this way, the second afternoon, from Chambersburgh, without the loss of any rest; taking the splendid STEAM BOAT LINES, which set out at 6 o'clock in the morning, [via CHESAPEAKE AND DELAWARE CANAL, a work well worth the trip to see.]

REESIDE, Owner.

In all cases where the passengers desire to reach Baltimore in time for the 5 o'clock steam-boat to Philadelphia, they can do so by leaving Chambersburgh at one o'clock in the morning, or immediately after the arrival of the Western Mail Stage. In this way, they arrive in Philadelphia, by eight o'clock the second morning, from Chambersburgh.

☞When a load offers, the stage will run on Mondays. April 23, 1830.—tf.
